Title: Lewandowski's Historic Goals Propel Barcelona to Third Consecutive Champions League Victory

In a thrilling Champions League clash, Robert Lewandowski continued his remarkable scoring streak, netting two goals as Barcelona secured a third consecutive win over Red Star Belgrade. The Poland international's impressive tally of 19 goals in 16 games across all competitions has brought him tantalizingly close to the elusive century mark, joining the ranks of Cristiano Ronaldo and Lionel Messi.

The match began with a reactive finish by Lewandowski after Raphinha's shot rebounded off the post, restoring Barcelona's lead before half-time. However, Red Star Belgrade's Silas Katompa Mvumpa managed to level the score with a goal against the run of play.

As the second half kicked off, Barcelona quickly regained control, with Jules Kounde assisting Lewandowski and Raphinha for two quick-fire goals that took the game away from the Serbian champions. Fermin Lopez also contributed to the La Liga leaders' dominance, sealing the victory for Barcelona.

Despite Red Star's late consolation goal by substitute Milson, Barcelona remained unbeaten in the Champions League, moving up to sixth in the new 36-team league format.

Lewandowski's goal-scoring prowess has been a driving force behind Barcelona's success, with his 99 goals in 124 Champions League appearances setting him on the path to becoming only the third player in history to reach a century of goals in the competition.

The victory lifted Barcelona's confidence, as they continue to dominate the Spanish league, with Hansi Flick's free-scoring side on track to finish in the top eight of the revamped Champions League.

As Lewandowski inches closer to his 100th Champions League goal, Barcelona fans eagerly await his next goal against Brest later this month. With his incredible form and the team's unwavering determination, Barcelona is poised to make history once again in Europe's elite club competition.

In conclusion, Robert Lewandowski's remarkable goal-scoring form has been instrumental in Barcelona's recent success, as they continue to dominate the Champions League and the Spanish league. With Lewandowski's historic goal-scoring streak, Barcelona is on track to achieve greatness in the world of football
